the globalization of marketing has brought about an interesting paradox as the discipline becomes more global the need to understand cultural differences becomes all the more crucial this is the challenge in an increasingly international marketplace and a problem that the world's most powerful businesses must solve from this challenge has grown the exciting discipline of ethnic marketing which seeks to understand the considerable opportunities and challenges presented by cultural and ethnic diversity in the marketplace to date scholarship in the area has been lively but disparate this volume brings together cutting edge research on ethnic marketing from thought leaders across the world each chapter covers a key theme reflecting the increasing diversity of the latest research including models of culture change parenting and socialization responses to web and advertising role of space and social innovation in ethnic marketing ethnic consumer decision making religiosity differing attitudes to materialism acculturation targeting and ethical and public policy issues the result is a solid framework and a comprehensive reference point for consumer researchers students and practitioners expanding on the editors award winning article evolving to a new dominant logic for marketing this book presents a challenging new paradigm for the marketing discipline this new paradigm is service oriented customer oriented relationship focused and knowledge based and places marketing once viewed as a support function central to overall business strategy service dominant logic defines service as the application of competencies for the benefit of another entity and sees mutual service provision rather than the exchange of goods as the proper subject of marketing it moves the orientation of marketing from a market to philosophy where customers are promoted to targeted and captured to a market with philosophy where the customer and supply chain partners are collaborators in the entire marketing process the editors elaborate on this model through an historical analysis clarification and extension of service dominant logic and distinguished marketing thinkers then provide further insight and commentary the result is a more comprehensive and inclusive marketing theory that will challenge both current thinking and marketing practice
